Group Meditation Work

May 29, through June 26, 2014

The evolution is important not of earthly humanity but of humanity of the Universe. If this simple formula could be adopted by human hearts, the whole starry vault would become tangible. Verily, it would be easier for the beings of other worlds to pierce through the stifling atmosphere of Earth if toward them were coming appeals from earthly incarnates. Community, 32.

June 27, through July 26, 2014

The work you have to do is to take the knowledge which is yours and adjust its application to the world's need so that recognition of the truth may be rapid. In the heart of every man lies hid the flower of the intuition. On that you can depend, and no eternal or cosmic fact clothed in a suitable form will fail to receive its meed of recognition and understanding. The Rays And The Initiations P. 11

The Core Problem and the Solution

At this moment the resources of the planet are treated as “property.” Those resources include the very land of the planet which we call real estate and anything the land contains below it, such as minerals, or on it, such as timber or food, and water. Not often seen as a planetary resource is air. Although air is what we breathe, it is also the medium through which utilities like electricity, and electronic emissions like radio, TV, and Internet traffic move. These utilities move through what we call airwaves. The airwaves are regulated property paths which are still owned by us or the government. We lease these paths to private persons called Corporations.

For many centuries most human beings were seen as and treated as the property, or serfs, or subjects of ruling individuals, royalty or class. Eventually this situation was recognized for what it was, slavery. Slavery is the ownership of one person by another person. Slavery destroys the owned individual’s personhood and reduces him or her to a state of property with no rights or dignity. Although it is still more prevalent than we would like to know about, slavery has been recognized as against the principles of human rights and law.

Also included in property are the much less tangible things such as stocks and bonds and a bewildering array of other such documents like credit default swaps. Even though they are legally considered to be persons, Corporations are also property. This includes privately owned giant corporations such as Bechtel, Cargill, and Koch Industries.

Corporations are managed, not for the Common Good or the General Welfare, but to enhance stock holder value.

Other huge corporations, of which Walmart is the world’s largest, are “publicly owned.” However in most cases, for example Walmart whose family owns over 50% of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. stock, a very small number of individuals own a controlling interest of a corporation’s stock. Corporations are managed, not for the Common Good or the General Welfare, but to enhance stock holder value. In most cases this means a very exclusive small group of individuals. And of course there are the banks, of which the largest in the United States in 2011 were JP Morgan Chase, Bank of America, Citigroup, Wells Fargo, and Goldman Sachs.

In addition, we have so called intellectual property, or “creations of the mind.” This last area includes, among a vast array of other things, those “creations of the mind” which we call Technology. Technology consists of software and hardware.

The software is largely a dense formulation or manifestation of a relatively new engineering process called programming. The end results of a program manifest as a series of electronic commands. In most instances, when actuated, these commands will cause a piece of hardware, an actual dense physical machine designed to use the software, to do something.

Technologies can be thought of as some manner of a robot. Technology robots vary in size from infinitely tiny things, like nanobots to huge machines which employ millions of tiny things to perform some task or other. When actuated, they do what their program tells them to do. With the exception of what is called open-source, all of this software and hardware is proprietary, patented, and owned intellectual property.

As we know, the overwhelmingly vast percentage of all property listed above, as well as the “liquid” mediums of exchange which are generally called cash or money, is owned and otherwise controlled by a tiny handful of individual people. This includes most of the technological intellectual property which is being used to bring the planet under control and which is patented and owned by technology companies like Apple, Google, Amazon, food and drug companies like Monsanto and Pfizer.

The question is which humans will manage the planet and for whose sake?

It is easy for anyone who looks ahead to see that the evolution of technology, programming, and hardware development will soon result in various technologies or robots that will perform millions of the functions that are now done by human workers. Soon enough, this technology will make it possible for humans to actually manage the planet.

The question is which humans will manage the planet and for whose sake?”

According to the Forbes report released in March 2013, there are currently 1,426 billionaires worldwide (Wikipedia). (A billion looks like this: 1,000,000,000. A million looks like this: 1,000,000.) These are just the “dollar” billionaires. If we lower the amount of wealth to just 30 million, this number, according to the World Ultra Wealth Report, would go to 199,235 individuals (Wikipedia). There are probably another hundred thousand or so UHNWI (Ultra high-net-worth-individuals) of other currencies around as well. The yearly total of what most of us as individuals earn doesn't amount to a day's pay, or in the case of the average minimum wage worker, even an hour's pay for one of the 1,645 billionaires who represent a combined wealth of $6.4 trillion.

At this moment, world democratic governments are all that stand between what little freedom and equality we now have and the return to a planet owned and operated by and for the benefit of the UHNWI or the “Job Providers” as they style themselves. Realize that the immediate, actually ongoing agenda of these forces is the domination and control of our government. We have been lately reading about words like privacy that have all but disappeared. The revelations that The Snowden Papers have been generating are a smidgen of what, because of something called “security,” was not revealed.

Ask yourself, whose security is being considered here? While I would not rule out the scenario from The Matrix, it is Aldous Huxley's Brave New World, with lots of consciousness numbing drugs and toys, which seems a more likely possibility. As the inhabitants of this world say, "A gram is better than a damn."

If we are going to do anything about this situation, we must regain control of our governments!

If we are going to do anything about this situation, we must regain control of our governments. The upcoming 2014 elections at all levels are of supreme importance. I am absolutely certain that the Forces of Light are doing everything that can be done by them to aid and support our efforts.

I am also well aware of the process of invocation and evocation. This process is not fulfilled through beseeching the Great Ones for aid. Effective invocation is the demonstration that we are doing everything that we can do. As we strive to overcome these human-generated blockages to evolution, our actions in any and all areas of our daily lives generate an overwhelmingly powerful invocative energy stream that will call out an equally overwhelming evocative response. We can only be helped to do what we do, what we have the heart and courage to do.

It's all about evolution and freewill. We have to demonstrate the will to be free by being free.

The one thing that all meditators can do and which only skilled meditators should do is to participate in what I am calling, for lack of any other name, Action Meditations.

Action meditations are initiating energy directing meditations. Examples of this kind of work are the Sub-Plane Clearing Meditation and the Capitol Cleaning Meditation. The Capitol Cleaning Meditation is a focused sup-plane clearing meditation. It has a format that can be used for any location on the Planet. We would be happy to provide copies of these meditations upon request.
